

BAI Announces CAP Certification “Boot Camp”

20 April 2022

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Fairlawn, Virginia – BAI Information Security announced the launch of the CAP Certification “Boot Camp” training program. “This intensive five-day training program is designed for students who desire to quickly acquire the knowledge needed to pass the Certified Authorization Professional (CAP) examination,” said Devon Schall, CEO of BAI Information Security. The CAP Certification Boot Camp includes in-depth instruction on all phases of the Risk Management Framework (RMF), which forms the basis of the CAP body of knowledge. Also included are sample test questions, test-taking skills and hints, and much more.

The CAP Certification Boot Camp is being offered on a regularly scheduled basis, in an online, instructor-led format using BAI’s Online Personal Classroom™ technology. The first class is scheduled to begin on July 18 - 22, 2022. The cost of $2,495 per student includes five full days of training and all required training materials. Please note the cost of the CAP certification exam is not included and must be paid separately to the certification body, ISC2 (www.isc2.org). Online class registration is available at <https://register.rmfi.org>.

Additionally, the CAP Certification Boot Camp is available to pre-arranged groups of eight or more students, at a substantial discount. Classes can be held online, or in person at the customer site.

BAI Information Security is the leading provider of Risk Management Framework (RMF) training and consulting services. For further information, please contact Alice Steger, Director of Sales and Marketing, at 1-800-RMF-1903 (763-1903), or visit the BAI website at www.rmfi.org.